

STANDING ORDER NO. 404/2012.

"YUVA" - POLICE INITIATIVE TO ENGAGE YOUNG ADULTS AND STREET CHILDREN IN CONSTRUCTIVE ACTIVITIES TO WEAN THEM AWAY FROM CRIME.

Of late, in some districts an effort has been made to involve street children and young adults in sports activities, vocational studies, painting workshops etc. The idea behind this initiative has been to wean away young adults and under-privileged children, who for want of proper educational and sports facilities may take to crime. This initiative needs to be put on an even keel by involving NGOs who are working in the resettlement colonies, slums, jhuggi-jhopri clusters etc., which may have become breeding grounds for juvenile delinquency and potential criminals. Engaging young adults and under-privileged children will enable them to encourage them to stay away from crime and may become a source of criminal intelligence as well.

This initiative shall, henceforth, be called 'YUVA' and should involve NGOs, corporate houses, social volunteers etc.

It should be explained to the local officers that far from being a gimmick, such initiatives are taken by police forces across the world and have proved to be very successful in bringing the community and the police closer and in curbing street crime. If carried out with sincerity on a sustained basis, it would show our humane face and also keep petty crimes under control. Such members of staff, who show keen interest in the initiative should be suitably rewarded. Concerned beat officers and division officers should be a part of this scheme.

The Police Stations where such initiatives are necessary and possible should be identified in every district and the scheme implemented.

Progress achieved in this regard may be communicated to the undersigned through proper channels.

Commissioner of Police,
