|  | Halt Maintenance Parade Knowledge about maintenance parade is essential. When a vehicle is used for a long journey and halt on the way, the driver should check the following:- i) Tyre pressure ii) Driving shaft bolts iii) Leakage, if any (Water/oil)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 05 | 05 |
|  | Last Maintenance Parade Knowledge about last maintenance parade is also necessary. When a vehicle is parked after journey, the logbook is to be completed; vehicle should be parked properly after switching off the lights and closing the door locks. If any trouble/defect is noticed during the journey, the same should be written in the logbook and handed over to the duty officer along with the key.                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 05 | 05 |
|  | Periodical Maintenance The maintenance of a vehicle which is carried out after a particular frequency/period is called periodical maintenance. The following items are to be checked/replaced after that particular period/frequency/mileage as recorded by the manufacturer of vehicle:- i) Servicing of the vehicle .....Kms. ii) Oil filter change .....Kms iii) Engine oil change .....Kms iv) Differential oil change .....Kms v) Fuel filter clean .....Kms vi) Gear box oil change .....Kms vii) Air filter clean .....Kms viii) Air filter replaced .....Kms | 15 | 15 |
